We look at your total average usage and multiply those gallons by the Department of Energy's forecasted price for heating oil or kerosene in the upcoming winter. After we have the total cost of your fuel we spread the cost over a 12 month* period allowing you to pay the same amount each month of the year. Each December we will recalculate your price per gallon based on any new forecasting data or money you have in your account. The goal is for you to not owe us anything at the end of the season.
